Rent a boat for an adventure

From time to time, visitors and locals find themselves without a boat to call their own. In that case, it’s best to rely on floating friends or — if those are in short supply — rent one for a day. (Renting can be a heckuva lot cheaper than owning.)

There are age and experience requirements for renting a boat in the Florida Keys. Expect to pay between $150 and $250 (depending on the size of the boat) for a half day.

Whether you own or rent, keep these safety tips in mind:

• Life jackets: Ensure that you have enough life jackets to fit everyone aboard — including the kids — and that all are in good condition and easy to reach.
• VHF radio: A cell phone won’t summon the closest potential rescuers — your fellow boaters or anglers. A VHF radio can be purchased for as little as $100. If you have a handheld VHF ensure the battery is charged.
• The anchor: Unlike a car, a boat never stops moving, even in an emergency. Having an anchor and line in good condition will prevent drifting and give you time to think things through and make it easier for others to find you.
• Inventory and review all safety gear: Double-check to ensure you have all of the mandated safety gear such as signaling devices and fire extinguishers, as well as other gear, such as the GPS. Brief your guests and crew on where the important items are located.
• Get a vessel safety check: A free vessel safety check from the US Coast Guard Auxiliary or US Power Squadrons is easy to arrange and can help you identify potential safety issues aboard your boat.
• File a float plan: Before you leave home, tell someone where you are going and what time you are expected to return. This person should be able to go to the authorities if you fail to check back in by a certain time. — Citizen Staff & BoatUS
Fun in the Keys: Some Basic Facts

Kiteboarding
A great way to get into this sport is by taking a lesson. Instructors provide the experience, equipment and boat support. Expect to pay about $300 for a three-hour lesson.

Paddleboarding
Paddleboarding is an excellent introduction to Keys watersports. It has an easy learning curve and gives participants a great vantage of marine life. You can rent one for about $35 for a few hours. Ask about multiple-day discounts and newbies are encouraged to sign up for a tour — let the experts show you the sights for a few dollars more. For fitness, try a yoga or fitness class on the paddleboard. Those cost about $25 to $30 and offer quite a workout.

Backcountry fishing
Most professional guides charge between $450 for a half-day and $650 for a full day of fishing on the flats. The small craft, perfect for fishing the “skinny water,” accommodate only one or two anglers.

Offshore fishing
The typical offshore sportfishing expedition costs about $550 half day and $850 for a full day. The larger boats, usually more than 40 feet, can fish six anglers comfortably.

Sailing cruises
Take your pick from a historic schooner to a modern-day ferry for a tour around the island. Day cruises are slightly less expensive than the sunset cruise. Expect to pay about $40. Ask if adult beverages are included in the price.

Boat rentals
Expect to pay $150 to $250 for a half day on the water, depending on the size of the boat. Renters pay to top off the boat’s gas tanks at the end of the day.

PWC rentals
Join a group of Jet Skiers for a two-hour tour for about $125. (Prices depend on one- and two-person PWCs.) Riders must be 18 years old to rent a water bike. The tour guides help participants navigate the waters, point out the sights to be seen, and take them to a safe spot to let loose.

Swim with the dolphins
There are several dolphin programs in the Keys that allow visitors to interact with the lively mammals. Expect to pay about $200 for quality time in the water with a finned friend. Reservations are recommended.

Party boat fishing
Sometimes called “head boats,” these large vessels make two trips daily and occasional night trips. The boats can accommodate a couple dozen anglers. Expect to pay about $45 or $55. Ask about rod rentals and bait provisions.

Snorkeling and diving
The costs for a trip to the reef on a professional dive boat varies depending on how much equipment the diver owns. Forty dollars is the bare minimum for a snorkeling trip and $100 will cover someone who needs a complete scuba kit. Most often, snorkelers are welcome aboard. Ask about water time vs. travel time.

Kayaking
Kayaks can cost as little as $20 for a half day. However, joining a tour could be more fun and entertaining. In that case, the price goes up to $35 for a two-hour trip and $60 for a four-hour trip.

Parasailing
A tandem flight costs about $80 for the ride or $40 per person. Parasailers spend about 10 minutes in the air and about an hour on the boat. Most companies run two trips a day, weather permitting.
With summer in the Keys just around the corner, many parents are making plans for their rugrats. Throughout the island chain there are numerous camps, offering everything from sports, to art, to music and more.

The Citizen has compiled an extensive list of summer fun activities from Key West to Key Largo.

KEY WEST

- The Studios Key West - Art is Cool!
  Takes place Saturdays in June, from 10 a.m. to noon. For ages 7-15. A maximum of 25 students will be accepted. Select one or as many sessions as your summer schedule allows. Each session covers a different topic and provides a unique opportunity to create. The only rule is, dress for mess. All materials are included. The cost is $25 per child.
  - June 1: Sand Casting with Christine Fifer: Kids make a plaster casting of found and funky objects — indoor and outdoor — for good messy fun.
  - June 8: Fantastic Monsters with Michele St. Pierre: This is a collaborative class, based on the Exquisite Corpse art project. Children will unleash their imaginations onto the page by creating a colorful, fantastic monster.
  - June 15: Friendship Bracelets with Michele Atkinson: Make ‘em, wear ‘em, or trade ‘em with a pal. Artist Michele Atkinson leads students through the creation of two collectible snap bracelets that can be shared with friends and family.
  - June 22: Self Portrait Painting with Maggie Ruley: Colorful, whimsical and adorable. Learning to create a self-portrait is a great way to learn the fundamentals of painting and self-expression. Students will leave

PADDLE UP

The nice thing about paddle boarding, (some call it stand up paddling), is that anybody can do it. Newbies can paddle a reasonably straight line after just a few minutes of practice.

The equipment needed is a board and a single-blade paddle. That's it. The boards specially made for the sport are long (about 11 feet) and wide (about 2 feet) and are covered with a special “skin” for better traction. The boards also have better flotation than a regular surfboard, which requires a forward-motion plane to support their riders.

The trick to paddleboarding is to mount the board by kneeling in the center and then bracing the paddle in your fists crosswise against the board. Slowly, get to your feet and widen your stance with knees slightly bent. Paddle with the pole positioned vertically to the board, keeping the stroke very close to the board's edge or just brushing it.

Stand up paddling isn't strenuous and balancing is easy after just a few minutes. Bonus points: the vantage is much better than a kayak and because of the ergonomic position, it's easier on the back muscles and tushy.

(.Editor's note: If paddlers intend to leave a protected swim area, new rules require that they have a flotation device.)

TAKE A SWIM

Islamorada’s Founders Park is hosting a summer swim clinic from Monday, June 18 through Friday, June 22 from 9 a.m. to noon for swimmers age 6 and up. The camp includes instruction on swim technique, starts, turns, racing, water games and some dry-land activities. The cost is $100 for Islamorada residents and $110 for non-residents. It's also offering six weeks of diving instruction through July 27. The class, taught by Jetstream Diving's Joseph Greenwell, will focus on front water entries, back water entries and a variety of dives. Classes are Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. Rates are based on sessions per week. For more information, call 305-853-1685.

START SAILING

The Upper Keys Sailing Club is launching eight weeks of sailing instruction for young sailors from the Florida Keys. Campers age 7 and older are welcome to participate. Each session lasts a week and runs from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

"The thing with sailing is that kids realize that they can be out there on the water, independent and learn how to do their own things on this little boat. It builds their self esteem and it teaches them problem solving, too," said Rosa Lamela, a mother of two young sailors and the summer camp coordinator for the club.

The sessions are limited to about 10 sailors and they learn the fundamentals of sailing aboard Optimist dinghies. The kids are under close supervision of U.S. Sailing-certified coach Stephanie Sykora and an assistant. The classes take place at the club, located at 100 Ocean Bay Drive in Key Largo at Mile Marker 100, and students take to the waters in the Buttonwood Sound.

"The thing about sailing is that it's contagious. Once kids learn, they want to do it all the time and it's really a sport you can enjoy 365 days a year in the Keys," Lamela said.

The cost is $250 per week. Multiple child and multiple week discounts are available. Lunch is not included. For more information, call 305-747-2600 or e-mail rosalamela@bellsouth.net.

Islamorada's Founders Park is also sponsoring a junior sailing program this summer. That camp is from 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday and costs $175 for the week when booked and paid in advance. Students can join the park's regular camp activities in the afternoon for a discounted rate. To reserve a spot, call 305-434-8984.

FLY A KITE

The Florida Keys is fast becoming a mecca for kiteboarding enthusiasts. The weather is favorable, the scenery incredible. More important, however, is the skinny water and lack of waves.

"We've got all this shallow, calm water and 360 degrees of ride-able wind; no matter which direction the wind is coming from, there are spots that we can go," said Aaron Osters of Florida Keys Kiteboarding and Stand Up Paddleboarding. Based in the Middle Keys, Osters also note another important safety matter, "Our waters are wide open with no obstructions."

Expect to pay about $300 for a beginner's lesson that lasts three hours. It starts with a half hour of "ground school" that covers terminology, safety and kite basics. Then the students head out to a shallow flat for more instruction. Osters said most, if not all, of the first lesson is learning how to control the kite.

"Some people will get to the point where they can strap the board on their feet and try to get up," he said.

Although kiteboarding looks intensely physical, it's not. Osters said he's had kids as young as 10 and...
IN THE KEYS

as old as 92 try the sport.
“You can control the kite with one finger because the harness is doing all the work,” he said.

RIDE A WATER BIKE
It’s not enough to drive up and down U.S.1. To get a real sense of the islands, you have to ride around them.
“You see the houses from the waterfront on a Jet Ski tour. But the best part is all the marine life. You see turtles and tarpons and manatees and nurse sharks,” said Billy Mosblech of Barefoot Billy Watersports in Key West.
Most personal watercraft rental companies now offer guests a guided two-hour tour. It’s a departure from the old way of doing things where riders on a borrowed craft had to stay within sight of the rental kiosk. In close quarters, that could be annoying to other people using the waterfront and irritating for the riders.
“That wasn’t satisfying for either party,” he said.
Today’s tour companies include a lot of fun in one package — riders get a narrated tour of the area, a chance to stop and snorkel and, of course, a wild ride.
“The free-riding is a blast with a 110 horsepower Wave Runner doing 50 mph,” Mosblech said. “But the important part is that we take riders into the open ocean, a safe place, to do the fast stuff where it won’t bother people or wildlife.”
Most vendors are happy to customize the tour to fit the customer’s needs. Some parties want to spend more time snorkeling and others enjoy scouting around the mangrove islands, so don’t hesitate to let your guide know what you want. Tours range from $100 to $150 and riders can double up on a single Jet
Ski or ride their own.
“The nicest thing about the Jet Ski tour is that it’s good for all ages,” Mosblech said. “You don’t have to be an athlete to ride a Jet Ski. And, it’s just fun.”
